Dear Friends,

“When the organized chaos no longer seems organized, remember that God has not forgotten you. He sees your troubles, your challenges, and even your sinful responses. Yet, He has laid his hand upon you to enable you to serve for the good of the campers and the glory of God.” (taken from our summer staff devotional guide)

Here is a sample of those not-so-organized chaotic moments:

- A staff member drives a new golf cart into the pond
- Two of the main kitchen ovens give out an hour before meal time
- A volunteer for week four calls telling us he fell off his roof and broke 8 ribs so he will not be coming to Camp
- We find out the OB team of 30 students is actually staying over night

While this and more is typical of the camp day, we also experience the joys of camping when 6 young campers put their trust in Jesus Christ as savior during Week A and 2 teen girls accept Christ during Quest Camp.

We are ever thankful for the opportunity to serve in the midst of organized chaos. It is here amongst the challenges of the day that we see God work in the hearts of children and teens. Where else can we experience first hand the omniscience of God and His plan to call people to himself?

Thank you for your gift to this ministry of evangelism and discipleship in the camp setting. We are grateful for your partnership with us during this critical and chaotic season of summer camp ministry.

Serving with you,

Michael R. Gehlert
Executive Director
